Did You Know?

International Buy a Priest a Beer Day occurs annually on September 9th. It isn't officially commemorated by any Christian denomination. However, it is still a day when Catholics build relationships with their priests by taking them out for a beer, showing appreciation, and sharing how their ministry has been important to them. If you can't take your priests out, then offer a prayer for them or give them a thank you note.

The Oblate Sisters of Providence thank the parishioners of New All Saints Church for their continued support. 160 raffle books were sold donating $800 to the Oblate Sisters.

The Youth Ministers thank the New All Saints Church parishioners for their continued support of our youth. Thirty-five bags were filled with essential school supplies including $10 gift cards for all grade levels and $50 gift cards for each new college student.

22nd Sunday in Ordinary Time

One recalls the many do's and don'ts in the American legal system but a look at the Constitution of the Nation sees a very tiny volume—which is presumed to be the source (mother) of the various laws. What this tells us is that in the art of lawmaking many interpretations and elaborations have been added; and some mistake them to be of equal strength with the Original Law. What many people will agree with is that the work of addition and subtraction should not take away from the real law out there. This is what Moses forewarned when he forbade people from adding or subtracting. In the time of Jesus many legal scholars (existed) and were offering their scholarly opinions that turned to become laws depending on who the sponsors were and their influence in the community. The application of the law in the Gospel today is in the cleansing of hands before eating and when from a busy schedule with the outside world. One thing these scholars were unable to provide is the connection between the observance of the law and the demands of office etc. In the Gospel they intended that any failure to uphold the laws is a mark of turning away from the demands of purity and to that of justice. So, Jesus makes it clearer that what holiness expects is purity from within not as an outward sign; and when that from within do not live up to standard, the person needs more professional help to cleanliness and holiness. So, the work today is about the purification of our memories and actions so that they can help give us an open door. Where do you find your impurity and what will you do, knowing this? Remembering all we have and are come from God; we must plan to serve Him well. As we pray for workers this weekend, let's all resolve to join hands in the purification of ourselves and society so that all can serve God's interest. We are all called to work as God's viceregents let our works be found good as God's; and let every appreciation of work be adequate for a joyful continuation of every workers share in the divine project.
